6. Teaching, Learning and Assessment Strategies

Our overall approach to engagement is outlined in our statement on Undergraduate teaching & learning at Leeds Arts University

6a. Teaching and Learning

Level 4

Sessions will cover fundamental theories, concepts, and processes relevant to fashion marketing as well as underlining how the political, cultural, social, artistic, economical, technological contexts have an effect in the sector, as well as support you with the development of your ideas and creative work. Workshop sessions will introduce you to essential technical skills.

You will work on a range of projects in order to translate your understanding of the theory into creative practice and express your individual voice and ideas. Through these projects you will get the opportunity to explore different elements within fashion marketing creatively and identify areas of interest.

Based in a studio environment, you will have the opportunity to work independently as well as collaboratively with your peers on a daily basis with guidance and advice from tutors. Engaging with the studio culture and timetabled sessions will help shape your interpretation of fashion marketing practices, nurture your individual interests and allow you to learn how to communicate your projects effectively.

Level 5

Building up on your acquired understanding of fashion marketing, sessions will support you in further developing your knowledge and extending your skillset with a specific focus in digital media and communication, new technologies, futures studies and employability. Working on a range of projects, you will apply different skills and research methods and you will employ different media and presentation techniques.

Actively participating in collaborations and live briefs will provide you with the opportunity to prepare for professional practice. As you are progressing, there will be more focus on independent study in order to prepare you for Level 6.

Continuing to engage with the studio culture and timetabled sessions will provide you with further opportunities to receive guidance and feedback from the tutors in your learning journey and allow you to extend your ability to communicate your ideas effectively, helping you develop essential employability skills.

Level 6

As you are preparing to become a fashion marketing practitioner, sessions will support in providing a framework to guide you in your creative practice. Working in a series of self-directed projects, you will consolidate and apply the synthesis of your knowledge, understanding and skills. Your selected areas of research and practice will reflect your individual position and your career aspirations as a professional.

Making the most of the studio culture and timetabled sessions will allow you to consolidate your creative networks with peers and provide with the opportunity to receive continuous guidance from the tutors, helping you prepare for the transition from student to creative professional.

6b. Assessment

The aim of assessment is to inform you of your individual progress as you work through the course. Feedback is an essential element of assessment and explained in more detail in 6c. Assessment also ensures that you are meeting the required academic standards for the award.

Assessment reflects the teaching and learning content and is an integral part of the learning process. Specific assessment strategies and submission requirements are explained in the briefs that you will receive at the start of each module. Assessment is designed to reflect creative and academic practice and is aligned with the appropriate level of study. As far as possible assessment will be authentic in simulating professional practices.

Your creative output, therefore, is the application of your learning, and will demonstrate the extent to which you have learned, developed, assimilated and mediated your knowledge, understanding and skills into appropriate forms for submission requirements. You will evidence module expectations, as expressed as 'what you are expected to learn' in module specifications.

The assessment of the modules is holistic; all material presented for assessment in each module is taken as a whole and a single mark is arrived at. Most assessment is by portfolio submission, the exact nature and content of which is determined by the subject matter, content and learning expectations for each module and is specified in your module briefs.

Your work will be assessed holistically using the undergraduate Assessment Criteria and Marking Scheme. These are used to evaluate your learning against the learning expectations specified for each module. Levels are clearly differentiated by learning outcomes, module expectations, teaching and learning approaches and assessment design.

6c. Feedback

Tutors will provide feedback, both in support of your ongoing development, as well as in direct response to your work formally within assessment contexts.

Provision of ongoing feedback - defined as information communicated to students with the intention of improving learning - is a significant and distinctive strength of the course. It is demonstrated through frequent and ongoing discussions between staff and students.

Formative

You will receive formative feedback on your progress throughout the module in a number of ways. You will partake in ongoing evaluation within the teaching and learning on the course, developing skills in reflection and dialogue and receive ongoing formative feedback from the teaching staff and peers. All the modules on this course contain formal formative feedback sessions using the assessment criteria where you will receive feedback on your progress to meet this developmental aim.

Examples of formative feedback include (without being limited to):

- Peer Reviews
- Group Tutorials
- Individual Progress Tutorials

Summative

At the end of the module, you will receive summative feedback represented by a grade with tutor comments on your work. This feedback will help you to understand how you performed on the module, clarify your strengths and identify areas for further consideration.
